DEATH BY MORPHINE.

SUICIDE OF A PROMISING YOUNG LAWYER-BE-LIEVED TO HAVE SUFFERED A TEMPORARY ABERRATION OF MIND.

A distressing case of suicide occurred vesterday porning at No. 43 West Twenty-second street, a able boarding house, where a young lawyer, Edward K. Aldrich, who had of late been addicted to intemperate habits, ended his life by taking morphine. was with great difficulty that any particulars of the case could be ascertained, as the friends and relatives were naturally anxious to hush it up entirely Mr. Aldrich, who was about twenty-eight years old, was the son of Mr. W. F. Aldrich, receiver of the Mu tual Savings Bank and partner with him at his law office at No. 71 Broadway. While the son has comnitted suicide the father is now lying dangerously ill the same house from which young Aldrich's body ppointed receiver of the Mutual Benefit Savings tank in February, 1875, by Judge Donohue. He is a of the Union Trust Company.

It appears that his wife and one of his three sons vent to Europe a few months ago. Mr. Aldrich, while visiting his son at the latter's boarding place. in West Twenty-second street, was taken seriously ill nd has been confined to his bed at the house for the past five weeks. A day or two ago his recovery even ras doubted, and, it is said, that this fear of his ather's death preyed upon the young man's mind and, having in addition excessively indulged in drink. norning. Coroner Ellinger was notified and the ody was removed to an undertaking establishment in Sixth avenue. The father was kept in complete gnorance of the suicide of his son and yesterday was reported somewhat better.

NOT FIRMEDITATED.

That the act had not long been premeditated, but must have been perpetrated during a sudden aberration of mind, is indicated by the following desnatch which young Aldrich sent on Thursday to Mr. Read, a gentleman connected with his law office, at No. 71 Broadway:—

Broadway:—

I am going out of town to-day. Shall be down to-morrow. Young Aldrich greatly suffered some years ago from the excessive use of intexicating liquors, but his friends thought he had reformed. They now believe that his mother's absence and the fear of his father's death were instrumental in driving him back to his old course of dissipation, during which he committed the rash act. An additional circumstance may have worked upon his mind. It is stated that while the physicians attending his father had carefully concealed from their patient the fact that he was suffering from Bright's disease of the kidneys they had not hidden it from young Aldrich, and on Wednesday the latter, while in an irresponsible condition, blurted it out to his father. He afterward expressed keen regret at having committed this grave indiscretion, which, he feared, might unnecessarily alarm his father and, perhaps, even hasten his death.

Mrs. Aldrich, the mother of the suicide, received information by cable of her husband's severe illness, and she and her son are now on their way back to this country. Should her husband die—and his condition was still critical last evening—she would be confronted upon her arrival by the news of the simultaneous loss of husband and son—both of whom she had left in good health when setting out a few months ago upon her tour to Europe. Mr. Aldrich has a third son, and the latter, Mr. Trueman Aldrich, arrived yesterday morning to take charge of his brother's remains, which he intends to take to Palmyra, Ala.

Mr. W. F. Aldrich belongs to a highly respectable Southern family, and much sympathy is expressed at the unexpected suicide of his son, who, it was thought, had before him a promising career. He has a married daughter in Brooklyn, and granted a burial permit. An inquest will be held in a few days.

LOVE'S DESPAIR.

SUICIDE OF V. D. C. BUTLER AT HIS HOUSE IN SEVENTH AVENUE-A STEEN PARENT INTER-RUPTS LOVE'S SMOOTH COURSE.

Victor Davis Carleton Butler, a victim of love and melancholy, died by his own hand last evening at his boarding bouse, No. 201 Seventh evenue. The boarding house is kept by Samuel eldest of these, Miss Louise, an exceedingly preobject of Butler's affection, and, according to the statement of her states, Miss Minnie, take his life before because of Mr. Clarke's regarding ie suit with disfavor, but no one thought that he meant to take his life. Twelve years really meant to take his life. Twelve years ago Butler left Hartford, Conn., where it is understood he is exceedingly well connected, and came to this city. After spending a few weeks in looking about him he sought and obtained employment of Mr. Joseph Hayward, a paper merchant, of No. 174 Fulton street. A position of bookkeeper was given him, which he held up to the time of his death. He was understood to be in the receipt of a fair income outside of the salary allowed him by Mr. Hayward, and was, in consequence, regarded by the ladies with favor. It was rumored that he had been married and had five children living, but no one could be found last night who knew positively of their existence. About four years be had been married and had five children living, but no one could be found last night who knew positively of their existence. About four years ago he came to live at a house next door to the Clarkes, and boarded there until last July, when he removed to clarke's house. While at the former house he became acquainted, it is said, with Miss Louise, and his admiration soon ripened into love. Assiduously he paid his suit and was not without favor in her eyes, it is said; but her father objected, and Butler's suit did not prosper. He persevered, however, and at last moved to Clarke's house and took up his abode there, near the object of his affection.

"THE SUS WILL SHINK UPON MY CORPSE."

Frequently he complained bitterly of the cruel fate that prevented his union with the girl he loved, and suid that he would kill himself some day. Little attention was paid to his threats, and it was not thought that he would ever attempt his life. But a day or two before his death, while talking to Mrs. Clarke, he made use of the expression, "To-morrow the sun will ahine upon my corpse!" Again he said. "There is nothing here to live for. I must die!"

Vesterday afternoon Butler came home early and retired to his croon, which was on the second floor and fronted the street. After he had been there a little while some of the young ladies joined him and a general conversation was carried on. After some little ime, however, they all left except Miss Minnie Clarke, who continued the conversation. Butler crossed over to his bureau and took a single barrelled Colf's pistol, which he toyed with and sat down on the edge of the bed.

"What are you going to do with that?" was asked no idea that he contemplated any immediate attempt on his life.

Baising the pistol to his head Butter said very solemnly, "God forgive me!" and pulled the trigger. The ball, which was a large one, passed into the right ample and lodged in the brain. The hand, still grasping the pistol, fell to his side, and futter sank to the floor on his knees, his head hanging forward and the blood dripping upon the carpet. He was never conscious from the moment the bullet entered the brain, but he lived for about fifteen minutes. The shricks of the horrified woung lady alarmed not only the house but the neighborhood, and a score of people seen flocked to the scene. The police arrived in due time and took charge of the body, and Mr. Hayward, his employer, who lives at Trement, was telegraphed for.

Butler, it is said, was of late addicted to the use of liquor and frequented the neighboring barrooms to a died suddenly at his residence in Bristol, R. I., late on Wednesday night. He was a son of the late Professor Henry Bache, of the Coast Survey, and was born at Kingston, R. I., but subsequently resided in Newport, where he received his education. At an early age he entered the Coast Survey service, and continued on duty until a few weeks ago. During the past winter and spring he was engaged on the Florida coast, and returned home about three months ago, suffering from an attack of malarial fever. By skilful medical treatment he recovered so far as to give his friends hope of a speedy recovery and an early return to his duties. On Wednesday he complained of severe pains in the head, and during the night was seized with paralysis. After lingering a few hours insensible he expired. He leaves a wife and one child. Mr. Bache was in the thirty-ninth year of his age.

to make the 435 plates for his work.
In his despair he was about to quit
the great city, when he heard of the firm of Havell & Son. To them he went with his portfolios filled with sketches in crayon and water colors. In many of them Audubon had been obliged to make use of the inice of berries when his paints had given out on his journeys through the Western wide. It required a great deal of the backwoodsman's eloquence even to persuade Mr. Havell to attempt to make a single plate as an experiment. To this, however, Mr. Havell finally consented, and with such accuracy did he reproduce the drawing of the naturalist that upon entering the room Audubon danced about the picture
